

Volume 5 Issue 6

LeRoy "Mack" McNeas: Bluegrass ...and Mayberry

LeRoy and his wife hit the road, performing his solo music and accompanying artists all over the U.S. and into Canada.

Applebutter Express: A Uke and Bluegrass

You know your band is the real thing when you're asked to open for Steve Martin and Martin Short.

Jesse From the Brock: Don't Call Him J'Bro

"I was a self-taught mandolin player with the assistance of my oldest sister's 3 chords, rhythm, and keeping time with my foot."

Mark Stoffel: Serving Up Coffee and Cake

“Composing didn’t come easy at first, I had to learn to totally open my mind to new ideas and to accept them as not just valid, but valuable and beautiful.”

Remedy Tree: The Cure for What Ails You

“I think the best of my inspiration happens when I’m in my studio alone in perfect silence, just me and my thoughts.”

Tommy Buller: If the Creek Don’t Rise

He’s taken to the road and has been picking and singing for almost as long as he remembers.

Tricia Walker: Building Community

“It’s about finding ways to connect, and success in the ever-more-competitive field of songwriting depends upon those connections.”

Billy & The Kids Bluegrass (TBS)

Billy uses his past love and experience to teach his kids to play and sing bluegrass.
